DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. Claim 23 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
2. It is not clear how much weight can be given the limitation that the positive pressure source is portable since the positive pressure source is not part of the claimed combination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.
4. Claims 1-5, 7, 9-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cariapa et al.
5. Cariapa teaches in figure 6 a vehicle having a pneumatic pressure source for supplying a predetermined flow of pneumatic fluid through a plurality of leads to a plurality of compression sleeves having a plurality of inflatable chambers therein. While Cariapa may not teach the plurality of sleeves are in a plurality of passenger positions, it would have been obvious to provide another set of sleeves for another passenger in the vehicle. Duplicating another set of sleeves for another person would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Cariapa to include a second set of sleeves for another passenger in the vehicle so that more one passenger can enjoy the physical therapy.

6. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cariapa et al. in view of Peeler et al.

7. Cariapa appears silent with regard to exactly what pressures are applied to the feet and legs of the passenger. Any conventional pressure would have been obvious. Peeler exemplifies the art of applying compression sleeves to people for preventing thrombosis. Peeler teaches column 4, lines 31-36, pressures in the range of 65-15 mm Hg. This would comprehend the claimed range. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to further modify Cariapa to use pressures in the range of 65-15 mm Hg as taught by Peeler to complete the details of Cariapa.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

8. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

9. Claims 18-22, 26, 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Dye et al.

10. Dye teaches a sleeve having a plurality of inflatable chambers wherein a first chamber is in fluid communication with a second chamber and a third and a fourth and a fifth and a sixth chamber. The pressure valves 38 provide the sequence of subsequent inflation.

11. Claim 28 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dye et al.

12. While Dye teaches a pressure valve including a biasing member 52 and plug 50 the shape of the plug 50 is well within the realm of the artisan of ordinary skill. Ball valves are well known and an obvious equivalent alternative to the plug of Dye. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Dye to shape the valve plug to be a ball as is conventional and well known to an artisan of ordinary skill.

13. Claims 23-25, 8 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dye et al. in view of Cariapa et al.

14. It would appear that the pressure source 28 is portable however it is not clear. Cariapa teaches that the pressure source and controller can be portable. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Dye to use a portable pressure source as taught by Cariapa to make the system light weight and easily transportable to different locations.
